HUMBER FACTS REGARDING DOWNY MILDEW

Downy Mildew affects all types of standard impatiens (Impatiens walleriana) including doubles, mini and interspecific hybrids (Fusion).

What can I plant in my yard instead of Impatiens?

Humber has the following recommendations:

- 1) Divine Impatiens – A New Guinea type grown from seed, it does best in shade but can tolerate more sun if abundantly watered. They are compact plants, stunning, and low maintenance. Ideal for beds, containers or hanging baskets. Grows 25 cm (10") high and wide.

Available in Jumbo 6 packs (black) $8.99 ea

NOTE: 1 Divine would take the place of 3 regular impatiens you planted in the past.

- 2) New Guinea Impatiens Available in 4" pots 2.99 ea
- 3) Sunpatiens – Will grow in sun or shade. They are compact, bred for excellent branching for a dense, bushy plant. Will grow 50 cm (18") tall and equally wide.

Available in 5" pots 4.99 ea

1 gal 8.99 ea

- 4) Big Bounce Impatiens. Resistant to Downy Mildew, cutting grown, ideal for large patio pots and in-ground plantings. Well-branched, vigorous plants to assure that fewer plants are needed for fast fill in landscapes. Sun or shade.

Colours available: Cherry, Lilac, Red, Violet, White

Available in 5" pots 3.99 ea

Also try:

- 5) Fibrous Begonias have bronze or green foliage and flowers in red, white and pink.
- 6) Coleus (from seeds or cuttings).
- 7) Vinca – 'Madagascar' has glossy green foliage and likes full sun.

Canna Lily

Due to virus on rhizome stock in the industry, Humber Nurseries annual cannas are grown from seed.

Available in Cannova and Tropical series in the following colours: Bronze Scarlet, Red, Rose & Yellow

Available in: 4" pots 4.50 ea

5.5" pots 8.99 ea

1 gal (few) 12.99 ea

Also, from Proven Winners "New" Toucan Cannas in: Red, Rose, Scarlet & Yellow
